Profile

Journalist for 35 years, I have written about economics, politics, and technology, traveled the world as a correspondent, and then focused mainly on environment and sustainability. In 2013, I founded and directed the paper and digital magazine Tuttogreen for the daily newspaper La Stampa. In 2020 I was appointed by Terna to head the sustainability policy of a publicly traded industrial group with over 5,000 employees, a company which plays a key role in the country's energy transformation. A very strong managerial experience, which has allowed me to learn a lot, and to set up and implement environmental and social sustainability initiatives that are concrete and tangible.

Personal Information

Born in Rome on March 23, 1962. Lives in Rome. Married, one daughter.
